

Old Kennett Meeting Tricentennial Lecture Series

Presented at the Old Kennett Meeting House
Baltimore Pike & Woodchuck Way, Chadds Ford PA

To celebrate Old Kennett Meeting's Tricentennial, a series of events has been scheduled throughout the summer, centered around the meeting's past. The final events include a historical lecture on Quakers and the Revolutionary War which will be held the last Sunday August and a Tree Dedication will be on the last Sunday of September.

Date	Topic	Event
Sunday Aug 29 1:00pm - 2:30pm	QUAKERS & THE REVOLUTIONARY WAR	Join author Bruce Mowday , as he speaks about the Quakers who became involved in the Revolutionary War, including the story of the "Fighting Quaker," Nathanael Greene, and about what happened at Old Kennett Meeting and in Chadds Ford during the Brandywine Battle. This event precedes the September 11th anniversary of the Battle at Brandywine.

Free Admission — Open to the public

Sunday Sept 26 1:00pm - 2:30pm	TREE DEDICATION	Join Kennett Monthly Meeting in marking 300 years on the Old Kennett property. Yellowwood trees, which produce an annual spring cascade of white flowering blossoms, still survive at Famous colonial Quaker botanist John Bartram's historic home in Philadelphia. Two Yellowwood trees are being planted this year on both sides of the entrance to the cemetery to create a welcome arch in to the ancient resting place. This celebration will include silent worship.
-----------------------------------------	-----------------	------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------

Free Admission — Open to the public

Organized by the Old Kennett Committee,
Kennett Friends Meeting of the Religious Society of Friends, PO Box 122, Kennett Square, PA 19348
For more info: www.kennettfriends.org